Test Summary Report

Reported by: Maru Ayalew

Table of content

Application Overview

"10bis" is a popular online platform in Israel for ordering food deliveries from a wide variety of restaurants across the country. It offers a simple interface and comprehensive restaurant search options, including categories, names, locations, and ratings. Detailed information such as menus, photos, and customer reviews is provided for each restaurant. Users can save favorites, compare options, and locate nearby restaurants. "10bis" also offers additional services like the "10bis" card for discounts, "10bis" Super for grocery delivery, and restaurant reservations, along with year-round promotions. However, drawbacks include high shipping costs and variable delivery times. Overall, while "10bis" is convenient, it's important to consider and address its limitations.

Recommendations

1. To improve the user experience, fix the text and bottom page color in the personal area. Make sure the logo is visible in accessibility mode.

2. Ensure that the system handles user data securely and doesn't retain sensitive information unnecessarily.

3. Ensure that buttons like "Contact Us" offer multiple options for reaching out.

4. Implement input validation to restrict the number of characters in fields like the phone number.

By addressing these recommendations, you can enhance the overall usability, functionality, security, and user experience of your system.
